

Francesco Saverio Leopardi

The Palestinian Left and Its Decline

Loyal Opposition

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Crisis of the Left, Crisis of the Palestinian National Movement	1
	Subjective Factors, Dilemmas and Policy Fluctuations	4
	State of the Literature	9
	Note on Sources	11
	Outline of the Book	13
	The PFLP's Ideological and Organisational Background	15
	The PFLP Before 1982: Rivalry with Fatah and Leftist Fragmentation	19
2	Out of Beirut: Years of Split	29
	Introduction	29
	Tipping the PLO Balance: The Bases of the PFLP's Opposition to Arafat's Diplomatic Strategy	30
	Institutional Opposition: Constraining the Moderate Leadership Within the PLO	35
	The Formation of the Joint Command and Fatah's Internal Split	38
	Pressures from Within, Pressures from Without: The PFLP's Fluctuation in the Intra-Palestinian Dialogue	42
	The 17th and the 18th PNCs: From Total Rejection to Reconciliation	46
	Arafat's Progresses and the PFLP's Choice of Syrian Proxies	47
	From the Collapse of Hussein-Arafat Coordination to PLO Reconciliation: Unity Overrides Opposition	52
	Conclusions	57

3	Imagining an “Axis of Resistance”: The PFLP’s Foreign Policy in the Mid-1980s	67
	Introduction	67
	Regional Developments and Internal Shifts: The Bases of Alignment with Syria	68
	Presenting the Viability of Alliance with Syria	71
	The Backlash of the Alliance with Syria: Returning Contradictions	74
	The War of the Camps: The Outbreak of PFLP-Syrian Contradictions	77
	Making Sense of the War of the Camps, Seeking Broader Legitimacy	78
	The Persistence of the War of the Camps	82
	The USSR and the PFLP in the Mid-1980s: Limited Rapprochement	85
	A Reluctant Ally: Overview of PLO, PFLP-Soviet Relations	86
	Tactical Convergence, Strategic Distance	89
	Conclusions	94
4	The First Intifada: Initial Opportunities, Final Marginalisation	103
	Introduction	103
	Background to the Intifada: The PLO Penetration in the OPT	104
	The Emergence of the Islamist Alternative	111
	Contrasting Dynamics in the First Intifada: The PFLP Between Opportunity and Marginalisation	114
	The PFLP’s Pragmatism During the First “Triumphant” Year of the Intifada	114
	Losing the Intifada Momentum	120
	Avoiding the Split: The PFLP’s Choice of Integration	123
	The PFLP’s Inside-Outside Divide	127
	The Problematic Encounter with Political Islam	130
	Conclusions	133
5	The Advent of the Peace Process: From Rejection to Acceptance of the “Palestinian Versailles”	141
	Introduction	141

The PLO Between International Vulnerability and a Fading Intifada	142
The PFLP's Uncertainty on the Eve of Oslo	144
The Conservatism of a Revolutionary Organisation: The PFLP's Fifth National Congress	147
Marxism-Leninism Reconfirmed	148
Same Structure, Same Programme and Same Leadership	150
"Peace" in Oslo	153
PFLP-DFLP Coalition Reloaded	156
The PLO as an Obstacle of Islamist-Leftist Association	158
Heights and Decline of the Unified Leadership: Joint Opposition, Separate Integration	162
From Rejection to Acceptance	165
Re-Integrating the PLO to Preserve Authority	166
Looking for a Settlement	171
Conclusions	174
6 The Al-Aqsa Intifada and After: Resurfacing Contradictions and Ultimate Marginalisation	183
Introduction	183
Integrating the PNA: Democratisation and Commitment to Civil Society	184
The PFLP's Sixth National Congress: The Resurfacing Contradictions of "Institutional" Opposition	189
The Outbreak of the Al-Aqsa Intifada	192
A Divided Movement in an Asymmetric War	194
The PFLP's View of the Al-Aqsa Intifada: From a New National Front to a Bipolar System	196
Joining the Fight: The PFLP Between Militarisation and Palestinian Fragmentation	198
The PFLP's Retaliation and the Election of Ahmad Sa'adat	200
After Abu Ali: "Defensive Shield" and the PFLP's Shift Towards Mediation	203
The PFLP's Mediation in the Intra-Palestinian Dialogue	206
The Opposition-Integration Dilemma in Post-Arafat Palestinian Politics	212
The "First Palestinian Coup" or the PFLP's Ultimate Choice for Integration	217
Conclusions	220

7	Paths of Decline and Renewal: The PFLP and Leftist Trajectories Across Time	231
	Introduction	231
	The Communist Movement in Egypt (1921–1952): Primacy of the National Cause	232
	Enduring Repression, Seeking Collaboration: Egyptian Communism and the Nasserist Regime (1952–1965)	237
	Egyptian Communism and the Palestinian Left in Perspective	244
	The Evolution of the PKK's Radical Alternative, 1970s–2000s	246
	Political Renewal and Its Dilemmas: Marxism, National Liberation and Personal Leadership in the PKK and the PFLP	252
	Conclusions	257
8	Conclusions	265
	The Dilemmas of a Loyal Opposition and the Unattainable Alternative	265
	Different Phases, Constant Fluctuations	269
	Tools and Concepts for the History(ies) of the Left(s)	273
	Index	277