Parliamentary Elections in Russia

A quarter-century of multiparty politics

Derek S. Hutcheson

Published for THE BRITISH ACADEMY by OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
Contents

Preface and acknowledgements .......................................................... xi
Acknowledgement of funding ......................................................... xvii
Abbreviations .................................................................................... xix

1 Introduction ...................................................................................... 1
   1.1 Why study Russian elections? .................................................. 1
   1.2 Why parliamentary elections? ................................................ 3
   1.3 Structure of book .................................................................... 7

2 Russian parliamentary elections 1993–2016: an overview ............... 9
   2.1 From Soviet democracy to Putinist democracy ....................... 10
      2.1.1 Late Soviet elections ...................................................... 10
      2.1.2 The ‘founding’ State Duma election ................................. 14
      2.1.3 The routinisation of parliamentary elections ..................... 16
      2.1.4 The domination of United Russia .................................... 21
      2.1.5 A return to pluralism – or controlled competition? .......... 23
   2.2 The key actors of the party system .......................................... 26
      2.2.1 The ‘parties of power’ .................................................. 28
      2.2.2 The long-standing ‘semi-opposition’ parties .................... 34
      2.2.3 ‘Secondary’ parties of power ......................................... 39
      2.2.4 Liberals/rightist parties ................................................ 40
   2.3 The changing role of the State Duma ....................................... 45
      2.3.1 From consensual to majoritarian agenda-setting ............. 47
      2.3.2 The legislative ‘machine’ ............................................. 50
   2.4 Summary .................................................................................. 53
Contents

3 The framework of Russian elections 55

3.1 The evolving electoral system 57

3.1.1 The electoral formula and the structure of the ballot 58
3.1.2 Eligibility 63
3.1.3 Oversight 65

3.2 Explaining electoral reform 69

3.2.1 The initial system: 1993 72
3.2.2 1995 74
3.2.3 2003 75
3.2.4 2007 76
3.2.5 Post-2007 reform and the return to a mixed unconnected system in 2016 77

3.3 The Russian political machine and the role of elections within it 78

3.4 Summary 85

4 The party system 87

4.1 Classifying Russian parties 88
4.2 A floating party system? 90

4.2.1 Floating parties 90
4.2.2 The non-party system 96

4.3 A hegemonic party system? 98
4.4 A cartel party system? 105

4.4.1 The privileged position of the ‘cartel’ 108
4.4.2 The inside/outside nature of the party system 110
4.4.3 The relative roles of members, voters and leaders 112
4.4.4 Competition within the cartel 115
4.4.5 Party finance 118

4.5 Summary 122

5 On the campaign trail 123

5.1 Political marketing in Russia 123

5.1.1 The parties of power 127
5.1.2 Communist Party of the Russian Federation 131
5.1.3 Liberal Democratic Party of Russia 132
5.1.4 Yabloko 134
5.1.5 Minor parties 135

5.2 Campaigns and the media 136

5.2.1 Election advertising in the media 140
5.2.2 News coverage of the electoral process 143
5.2.3 The rise of the internet 145

5.3 Russian voters and the parliamentary election campaigns 148

5.3.1 Sources of information for voters 149
5.3.2 Effect of media bias 152

5.4 Summary 155

6 Mobilising the vote 157

6.1 Mobilising the vote: the use and abuse of ‘administrative resources’ 158

6.1.1 Patterns of administrative pressure 160
6.1.2 Forms of administrative pressure 162

6.2 Patterns of turnout in State Duma elections 1993–2016 168

6.3 Why do Russians vote – or not? 174

6.3.1 Profiling the voters 177
6.3.2 Motivations to vote 180
6.3.3 Profiling the abstainers 186

6.4 Summary 189

7 Voting in parliamentary elections 191

7.1 Mapping the electorate 191

7.1.1 The spatial distribution of votes 192
7.1.2 Tracking voters 196

7.2 Meeting the electorate 200

7.2.1 Party identification 200
7.2.2 Social characteristics of parties’ electorates 203
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>7.3 The discontented electorate</td>
<td>209</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.3.1 'A plague on all your houses'?</td>
<td>209</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.3.2 The motives of protest voters</td>
<td>213</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.4 Summary</td>
<td>217</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8 How legitimate are Russia's parliamentary elections?</td>
<td>219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.1 Methods of potential falsification</td>
<td>221</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.2 Detecting malfeasance</td>
<td>225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.2.1 Observation at the micro level</td>
<td>226</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.2.2 Macro-level statistical analysis</td>
<td>231</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.2.3 Official complaints and adjudications</td>
<td>236</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.3 The legitimacy of the elections</td>
<td>241</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.3.1 The view of the international community</td>
<td>241</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.3.2 The views of the voters</td>
<td>246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8.4 Summary</td>
<td>253</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9 Conclusions</td>
<td>256</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Appendix: Details of focus groups and surveys                           | 265  |
References                                                              | 269  |
Table of laws and decrees                                              | 305  |
Index                                                                   | 314  |