Referendums and Representative Democracy
Responsiveness, accountability and deliberation

Edited by Maija Setälä and Theo Schiller
Contents

List of illustrations xi
List of contributors xiv
Series editor’s preface xv
Acknowledgements xvii

1 Introduction
MAIJA SETÄLÄ 1

PART I
Referendums and models of democracy 15

2 From people’s veto to instrument of elite consensus: the referendum experience in Ireland 17
BILL KISSANE

3 Stabilizing or destabilizing? Direct-democratic instruments in different political systems 34
WILFRIED MARXER AND ZOLTÁN TIBOR PALLINGER

4 Ideological positions and the referendum in the Netherlands 56
ANK MICHELS

PART II
The demand for referendums: strategies and ideologies 75

5 To structure political conflict: the institutionalization of referendums on European integration in the Nordic countries 77
S. SITTER
Contents

6 Elite motives for initiating referendums: avoidance, addition and contradiction 98
   GIDEON RAHAT

7 The surge of referendums and the New Politics approach 117
   TOR BJÖRLUND

PART III
Referendum campaigns and voter behaviour 137

8 Campaign tactics and outcomes in referendums: a comparative analysis 139
   LAWRENCE LEDUC

9 Intense but useless? Public debate and voting factors in two referendums in Spain 162
   JOAN FONT AND ELISA RODRÍGUEZ

10 Checks and balances in Swiss direct democracy 186
    FRITZ SAGER AND MARC BÜHLMANN

11 Conclusions 207
    THEO SCHILLER

Index 220