Part VI – Research Activities

Keywords Brief Description

Rare skin (orfan) diseases, rare skin tumors and pediatric dermatology.	The scientific activity of Dr. Sandra Giustini is about Genodermatosis, in particular Neurocutaneous Diseases, included among the Rare Diseases; in fact, since 1984 he has followed the epidemiological and clinical researches in Neurocutaneous Diseases, a heterogeneous group of diseases of an inherited nature, with variable phenotypic forms, not yet collected in a homogeneous classification. The objective of this activity is: 1) promote and coordinate a collaborative study in order to create a multidisciplinary structure that can provide new scientific elements to the understanding of the pathogenic mechanisms underlying some rare diseases and to provide patients and their families with adequate assistance (the problem is still more relevant if one considers the socio-health character, so that the affects are often carriers of handicaps); 2) use of new survey techniques in order to identify any new markers for the diagnosis and prevention of these pathologies, in addition to the evaluation of predictive elements of neoplastic transformation and new therapeutic approach in rare skin diseases.
Since 2006 to present	Consultant for Orphanet (the portal for rare diseases and orphan drug)
