Research project

2020 - Current

Compliance in post pandemic

Description: This group aims to debate, study and research the most diverse themes arising from the context of governance and compliance management (in the Brazilian and global scenario) applied to the current pandemic and post-pandemic moment. We know that several professional and personal relationships will undergo changes and they may impact, positively and negatively on various productive sectors, as well as public management. It is intended to bring together professionals from different sectors - public and private, as well as professors from other higher education institutions to enrich the research of students in the specialization, master's and doctorate, with theoretical and practical support in order to provide a complete view of the Management of Compliance, Corporate Governance and Integrity and Risk Management, based on people management as a driving force.

Situation: In progress Nature: Research projects

Students involved: Graduation; Specialization; Academic Master's; Professional master's degree; PhD;
